

The Orrior Way Part One: Righting the Her/History of the Tribes

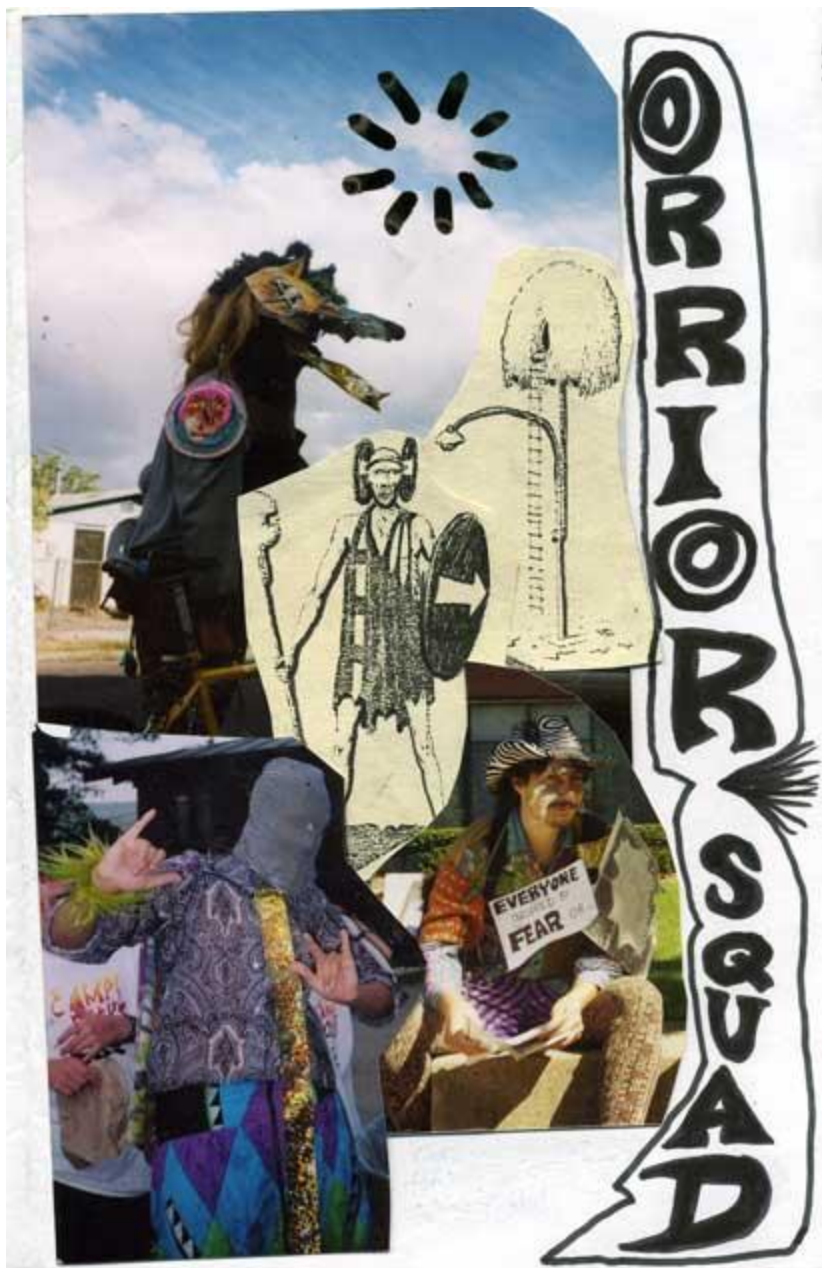

We are all descendants of tribes. And while descendants of all tribes were forced, manipulated, and otherwise coerced to adapt to the ways of those invading them (i.e. monoculture-ized forms of being), the heart of their ways was not, as many would have you believe, about pain and stupidity, like war. The heart of tribal ways, originally, reflected harmonies with the ways of Mom Earth such as interdependence, extended families, depth listening, intense inspired input (i.e. the vision quest), and ways of being that had no conception of the dumbed-down ways of warrior beliefs.

The managers of popularized culture want us to believe in & worship stupidity against all (including oneself), so they've manipulated our understandings of reality & have us focusing only on the most last-ditch efforts of tribal peoples under concerted attack in the context of invading societies commanding full war modes of all subordinates, including settlers. The way of the orriors (or-riors) —one who thinks & goes beyond war—is closer to the heart of the beautiful spirit of tribal longevity & harmony which allowed relative stability for thousands of years before invader came. It is closer, and in touch with, the ideals you have heard of behind "Counting Coup" (touching others as more meaningful than attacking them in the context of intensities). If we then see the lyrical metaphor-ing of the ancient tribal way, we see that the word "touch" is not merely physical... If we also have a resistance awareness we recall that much meanings have been lost in translations made often by invader officials whose interest and/or education has been to obfuscate/fog-up awareness.

Here then we begin to see this with words like "enemy" as well; that there is a heart difference between the ways that peoples in harmony with their & Mom Earth's natures perceive. I.e. that they never truly demonized others; that intense poetics served to art puzzles, and intense interactions served to get our hearts across to others who didn't seem to "get it"!

WE ALL KNEW IT WAS COMING. THEY TOLD US ALL ALONG, WHAT WAS GOING TO HAPPEN.

by Zig Zag

THE SIGNS WERE EVERYWHERE.

THEY TOLD US:

The problem is & was, how the response tended to reinforce the stupidity, such as armed uprisings.

say what?
I'm gonna get my NYM skins to beat your punk white ass & shut you up & get back in line like I got to do, see?

Hey! shut yer trap. I wanna hear him out a bit more; then we'll whoop his ass!!!

Uh... Thankx...

Ahem... the routine continues to instill the kinds of rigidities in the mentalities of the victims of oppression where they confine themselves to responses that alienation society has perfected -- the "art of war" of all kinds. Included, the dogmatic orientation to violence, to perpetuating alienation in a plethora of forms, including pride in one's identity against others seemingly unalike.

LEM'ME GUESS -- YOU'RE a gawdamned pacifist liberal?

ALRIGHT-You Yo-Yos!
Enough games! It's time we get down to BUSINESS!

Yeah, the business of being toolled!

What's your agenda & who do you think you are stealing our art styles? I'm the authorized Leader here, not you, so put up or shut up!

Your threats hold no water with me! & my art is inspired by Rance Hood (Commanche), & the Tlingit/kwakiutl & Haida depth styles.

Oh, a wannabe! You wannabe's, always coming in & starting trouble!

No, a fellow human & descendent of many tribes of Europe! Say, you'd do better by your claimed purpose to find our commonalities than this war shit!

Ah, & here comes the anthropologist to aid the poor misguided Indians!

So used to deceit, I can't say I blame y'all. But what happens when y'az meet authenticity? Do ya let your "superiors" do all your thinking?

okay Mr. smartypantz, what's your solution?

Getting back in touch with our young spirits & creativity mixed in with resistance consciousness & intellectual self-defense. then sprinkle in mass jujitsu & wah-la, you'r on your way to depth sanity! Instead o' death insanity!

Key is nipping the habit of tyranny in the bud before it can build into the momentum of the Romans, the nazis, & even the UN "peace keepers" (always doing the bidding of nato/u.s. gate keepers!), not to mention U.S./world-elite hegemony!

"...we have to learn and understand that they want us to be lazy in our minds and lazy in our spirit and lazy in our body... They want us to quit thinking. ...they are trying to push us into a position where all we think about is ourselves.

Wait, what about that rumor going around about him betraying a skin?

"Now, if we're sitting in this room tonight somebody in this room is going to go off and tell the bad guys what we're talking about. Now in reality, in that reality, these guys got all the 'power' right--they got all the guns and money and laws.

...Now, if they have all the power, then why do they have to have someone come here and run back and tell them what we're talking about? Because they're afraid we might think. They don't want us to think and they don't want us to clear the pollution out of our own minds because we can do it by activating our thinking process--but if they have all the power, then why are they so concerned about what we think? Because, it's of the mind."

Classic character assassination! And note how easily the Left vanguard bought into that & how truly weak ideology proves itself to be, * re: EF! & etc.

"We can't out-fight them, but we can out-think them. Every provocation throughout history has been to get us to outfight them. --And if you look at some of the little things about it, right, we're surrounded [with] a reality where you have to have permission to think. That's called 'Chain of Command': See, so if you really really think about it...in their legions they don't have permission to think. See, this starts to equalize out the numbers."--John Trudell

... Now, let's take a critical look at where we can affect things... how about amongst ourselves.

Basically, there continues to be a situation where teenagers are "supposed to" unquestioningly comply with the claimed wisdom of their elders, aboriginal or others. Naturally, they rebel... yet to pursue their intuitions meaningfully, there are few if any meaningful outlets... So they often create their own short-sighted family & sanctuary. More & more, on the Rez & in the city, this takes the form of the "gang", the thug mentality, & wider gaps between all. →

Now, what if they were encouraged to lead in their own capacities in some way? What if descendents of all tribes held powwows that facilitated their intensities in mixing tradition with hip hop & so on? The intention would be to honor the passionate spirits & intuition of young people while inspiring new ways to listen to the excellence of traditional ways! 8

"How we see what we see affects the quality of our reality" -- John Trudell, Lakota

The orrior way is about art-ing such intensity, yet with the aim of reconciliation, of getting along, of informally bridging, of realizing the value! Yet the orrior way is not passive! We are not "pacifist"; we are confrontive, yet not martial; we are Crucial aRt, not a Martial Art. We may utilize martial techniques in order to tire a challenger, but our aim is not centered on domination (formally or otherwise). We engage in intense, meaningful connections leading to bridge-ings -- a kind which may well lead to the classic nonviolent way of making friendships -- which is quite a rare imagination for most deeply tooled peoples (de-tribalized and colonized).

All "informals" are "eligible" to be orriors of the crucial aRts! Joining is merely an evolution of attitude, of experimenting with & thinking thru what these ideahs mean, & how they might be informally heard. If you realize the value of doing & being a kind of "or" beyond war in all its truly alienating forms (note: not in "all" its forms, only alienating forms), then you are on this path.

We are confrontational to varying dared degrees, depending on situations presenting themselves. How we art such situations is really up to our imaginations & how deeply we adhere to our (...contin'd next page ->) method/desired culture ways of being and doing. Nor do we need any formal (& easily attacked/undermined) organization; we learn via all inputs which inspire us, and accept all assistance informally, as would any open-minded family, team of heroes, etc. We may remain solo, oriented to teams, or sprinklings of both.

How deep is your arting?

Taking on the "opposition"

Inputs full of life & enthusiasm for life spotlight one path you may wish to visit as you come up with imaginative ways of interacting. We also may choose to see the value of looking behind and between the lines of all ways of doing and being, finding gems forgotten, hidden, or not permitted value (in the colonized mind-sets of the tooled).

In my feeling, the most inspiring/fun are those arising as pre- & de-colonizing efforts, such as the metaphorical poetics of playfulness as loved by so many ancient-oriented peoples, whether young children or tribes. The tribal peoples had their ways & we today have similarly-inclined enjoy-mints; only devoid, usually, of crucial meaning, i.e. consumer-oriented enjoyment of humor as rigidly divided 'audience' members unable to complement or even hang out with comedians & the like as fellow villagers, visiting cocapellis, or even extended family members!

Aware of such basic obstacles as this, solo orriors, teams/bands & even whole 'entourages' both creatively complement & artfully interact with & towards all they dare to with special emphasis on the spectrum of intensities. The value of informal potential bonds is especially understood.

Being oriented to "or" instead of 'war'; inspired orriors experience opposition &/or challengers as puzzles beckoning increased excellence if a solution (short & long-term) can be learned or dreamed'-up.

Notably missing from popularized conceptions;

olde/ancient/pre-civilized peoples (including kids) had & have been overwhelmed by the refugees of civilization only because of not having been prepared for such a different perception of reality. Tho their excelling intuition, creativity, culture, & in the case of aboriginals-- family & village-ing magick was & ~~is~~ is very strong, their understanding of the invaders has lacked -- a truth certainly (& documented) exploited by the owners & architects & their implementers who engage in all kinds of 'diplomatic' or other formal relations upon them. (10)

Such 'diplomatic' method persists to today, everywhere; "openly" via the encirclement of all kinds & covertly via COINTELPRO-type activity (despite systematic mystified claims to the contrary). Weilding resistance awareness, orriors escape the worst of how others are set up & set back. We see the value of studying & demystifying what the colonized (native or politically "radical") take for granted, such as pragmatic methods, expediency, propaganda, the fetish of formally organized organization & its officers/vanguard/"leaders", as well as the alleged need for openly 'protesting' mass constituencies reduced to single issues, rigid ideologies, & politics. Our ability as orriors of the crucial artz proves no actual need for such traps. Only our imagination & commitment limits us in seeking to reach the hearts of potential fellow villagers & family!
